What is a listserv?

A listserv is an Internet feature whereby one posts a message that is received via email by all listserv members. They can respond to you or to the entire listserv membership. The following email commands can be used to handle most end-user functions, instead of the web interface. More information on email commands is available at the ListManager Web Interface ☞ <http://lunar.lyris.com/help/lm\_help//11.3/>. # How do you post a message?

Messages are sent by email to AQUATOXinfo (AQUATOXinfo@lists.epa.gov). The postings are then sent out as email messages to every member of the AQUATOXinfo listserv.

How can I see the email listings from previous postings?

If you are a member of a mailing list, you can search past messages of the mailing list, and the messages that match your search specification will be sent back to you via email.

Send email to Search-ListManager (listmanager@lists.epa.gov)

In the body of the message, use the command search aquatoxinfo search words

Replace search words with the words you are searching for. ListManager will search for messages which contain any of the given search words. If multiple messages match your search, the search results will be organized so that the messages that matched more of your search terms appear at the top, and messages with equivalent search scores are organized with the newest messages first. If you are not sure of the precise form of the word you may use the wild card "*" to find variations (e.g. "citation*")
